

The United States is the second-largest producer of wind power, and generated 341.40 TWh of wind power in 2021, equal to just over 21% of total global production. Together, China and the United ...

The vast majority of turbines installed and energy generated by wind turbines are from utility scale wind turbines and a smaller but fast-growing proportion from offshore wind turbines.

Statistics show a steady increase in terms of the percentage of global electricity that comes from wind, which more than trebled in a decade between 2011 (2.04%) and 2021 (6.72%).

In 2022, wind turbines were the source of about 10.3% of total U.S. utility-scale electricity generation. Utility scale includes facilities with at least one megawatt (1,000 kilowatts) of electricity ...

Share of electricity production from wind, 2025 Measured as a percentage of total electricity produced in the country or region.

The world's installed wind power capacity now meets well over 10% of global electricity demand - and much more than nuclear power. More than 30 countries now have a share of wind ...

The following table shows states with significant wind energy generation, the amount (in thousand megawatt-hours) produced in November, and the percentage increase or decrease since ...

Wind supplies 57% of Denmark's electricity generation and over 20% in ten other countries. 7 Global wind additions reached a record 117 GW in 2023. 7 In 2024, onshore installations surpassed 100 GW ...
