

They are usually found at the junction of two or more roads and occasionally at roundabouts or outside fire and ambulance stations. A yellow box junction does not require any other signage.

What matters is whether you are lawfully waiting (e.g., turning right and held by oncoming traffic) rather than blocking the junction illegally. The only exception to stopping at a yellow box junction is when ...

When turning right, check that your exit road is clear. If your exit is clear, you may then need to wait for oncoming traffic to halt before actually making the turn. If this is the case, then you ...

Turning Right: When turning right, approach the junction slowly. Position your vehicle in the box, but wait on the hatchings until there's a safe gap in oncoming traffic to complete your turn.

Am I ever allowed to stop in a yellow box junction? If you are turning right, you can stop in a box junction if oncoming traffic prevents you from doing so - but only if your exit is...

The only time you can legally stop in a yellow box junction is when you're turning right and waiting for either a gap in oncoming traffic or another vehicle to turn right.

If you're going straight or turning left, you shouldn't stop and wait in a box junction. The only time you should wait in a box junction is if you're turning right and your path is blocked by ...

Am I ever allowed to stop in a yellow box junction? If you are turning right, you can stop in a box junction if oncoming traffic prevents ...

What if you're turning right at a box junction? If you want to turn right, you are allowed to enter the box and wait if you're prevented from turning by oncoming traffic, or by other vehicles ...

This tutorial will guide you for stopping at a box junction, turning right at a box junction and gain an understanding of yellow box junction rules. The Purpose of Yellow Box Junctions

When turning right at the yellow box if we have a green light just treat it like any other right turn. If we get a green filter light or a green arrow we generally proceed if it's safe to...

Web: <https://www.capturedmoments.co.za>